R. Hutton.

The autumn meeting of the Institute will be held at Barrow-in-Furness during the first week in September.—Secy., B. H. Brough, 28 Victoria St., London, S. W.

WESTERN SOCIETY OF ENGINEERS.—At the meeting held in the Society's rooms, Chicago, on April 15, Mr. Richard McCulloch, Assistant General Manager of the Chicago City Ry., presnted a paper on "European Street Railway Practice." He referred to the small mileage of street railways or "tramways" in European cities as compared with American cities of the same size, and remarked that in Europe the street railways have followed the population, while in this country they have been built ahead of the population, with the result of establishing and developing suburban districts. Many of the old cities, especially in continental countries, have narrow, crooked streets and are ill adapted to the development of street railways. In England the right to build street railways must be obtained from the general government, involving tedious and expensive preliminaries. In Germany the work is much easier. In France, however, full details of route, track construction and car equipment must accompany the application for a franchise, and it takes about two years to get the final approval even if there is no opposition. Improvements introduced during these two years cannot be used without amending the franchise, and as this is a tedious proceeding, much of the work is quite out of date. On the other hand, the city authorities protect the rights of the tramway companies. Mr. McCulloch was, naturally, not in favor of municipally-owned enterprises, and in regard to the low fares often spoken of he explained that these were only for very short distances, passengers paying additional fares after the cars pass certain points. The track is generally of substantial construction and cast-weld joints are being quite extensively used. The deep level underground electric railways of London were briefly alluded to, as were also the light or local railways which are common on the continent of Europe, being built along the country roads and operated by small steam locomotives, "fireless" locomotives and sometimes by electricity. At the present time American capitalists, engineers and manufacturers are doing much for the development and improvement of European street railways.

Prof. W. D. Pence (Purdue University) inquired as to the track construction, and Mr. McCulloch stated that as a rule heavy grooved girder rails are used, laid upon concrete and held together by the rods, but not anchored to the concrete. Where wooden ties are used, the rails are secured by long screws or sometimes by spikes. He also remarked that the surface-contact system at Paris had not proved successful, mainly on account of frequent failures of the contact buttons to be energized, thus leaving the car stalled without current. Horses have also been killed by stepping into pools of water in the street, where these pools were in contact with live contact buttons, the water acting as a conductor. Mr. Tratman (Engineering News) outlined the slow and costly work of obtaining tramway franchises in England, and the heavy track construction.

The program for the remainder of the season is as follows: April 29, "Borings for the Bohio Dam of the Panama Canal," R. C. Smith; May 6, "Railway Maintenance," H. J. Slifer; May 20, "Ferro-Concrete Construction," E. L. Heidenreich; June 3, "Railway Reconnoissance," Willard Beahan, and "Topographical Surveying," W. C. Bunnel; June 17, "The Manufacture of Corn Oil in Illinois," H. S. Bowen.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CIVIL ENGINEERS.—At the regular meeting held on the evening of April 15, at the house of the Society, at 220 West 57th St., New York, a paper was presented by Mr. S. W. Turrill, entitled "An Investigation of the Properties of Brick under Different Physical Conditions." The paper, which was printed in the "Proceedings" of the Society for March, 1903, recorded a series of strength tests of brick, using (1) brick in their ordinary condition, (2) brick which was saturated with water, and (3) previously saturated brick which had been heated to a fairly high degree of heat so that the water was all driven out. Tests were made with the material in compression, in tension, in shear and in torsion. One of the principal conclusions of the author was that "reheated" brick, taken to represent brick after having passed through a severe conflagration, was equal, or even slightly superior, in strength to new brick; it is to be noted, however, that about 12% of the reheated brick were rejected by their lack of soundness exhibited on striking with a hammer, and the above conclusion applies only to the brick which satisfied the hammer test.

In discussion, Mr. E. J. McCaustland pointed out that the author did not weigh the brick at different periods during their saturation with water, but only at the close of the soaking, after a period of six weeks in water. Such intermediate weighings would have shown the rate of absorption. He believed that in a period of 48 hours the larger part of the absorption was completed, and that brick tested after that period of soaking would represent more nearly the practical conditions; moreover, in commercial testing it is not usually practicable to give brick more time in water than about 48 hours. He believed also that the tensile strength of brick should be given more prominence than has been done in the past, as brick work in compression very often fails under the tensile stresses induced at certain points in the mass. On the matter of tensile strength he deduced from the author's experiments that the three classes of bricks tested ranked about equal in tension.

It was announced that the topical discussion at the annual convention to be held at Asheville, N. C., on June 8, 1903, would take up the following subjects: Timber Tests, opened by Mr. G. Pinchot, of the Bureau of Forestry; Sewage Purification, opened by Mr. Rudolf Hering; In the Treatment of the Mississippi River is the Levee System Justified; Can Concrete be Rendered Impervious to Moisture, and if so, What is the best Method therefor; What is the Effect of Sea Water on Steel, and on Steel in Combination with Concrete; In view of the Increasing Weights of Rolling Stock, for What Loadings should Railway Bridges be Designed?

TEXAS.—Our correspondent informs us as follows: In addition to the lines of railway authorized to be consolidated in Texas by the 28th legislature, whose regular session was recently adjourned, there were authorized to be consolidated the following lines of railway, which consolidation bills have been approved by the Governor:

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & GULF RY. (which has now a line practically completed from Ft. Worth to Dallas, 32 miles), is authorized to purchase and consolidate with the Chicago, Rock Island & Texas Ry., from Red River to Ft. Worth, 92 miles, and from Bridgeport to Graham, 55 miles; the Chicago, Rock Island & Mexico Ry., from Texahoma to Bravo, via Dalhart, 92 miles; and the Choctaw, Oklahoma & Texas R. R., from Texola to Amarillo, 111 miles. The C., O. & T. Ry. is now under construction from Amarillo west to a connection with the Rock Island-El Paso route at Tucumcarri, New Mexico, about 110 miles, 70 miles of which are in Texas. The C., R. I. & T. Ry. has just completed the location of an extension from Graham west, via Throckmorton to Haskell, about 70 miles, and it is thought that construction will begin on this extension within the year. The consolidated lines will appear under the name of the C., R. I. & G. Ry. The charter for this line, filed in 1902, authorized the construction of an extension from Dallas to Galveston, about 295 miles, but the recent purchase of the Houston & Texas Central R. R. by the Rock Island interests makes this unnecessary in order for the Rock Island traffic to reach the Gulf of Mexico on its own rails. However, this extension was entirely located and it is stated that soon a single track will be insufficient to carry the traffic when it is proposed to construct along the new located line, which shortens the distance to the Gulf from Dallas about 20 miles. H. B. Hovey is Gen. Supt. C., R. I. & G. Ry., Ft. Worth.

GULF, COLORADO & SANTA FE RY. authorized to purchase and consolidate with the Gulf, Beaumont & Kansas City Ry., from Beaumont to Rogan, 63 miles, and the Gulf, Beaumont & Gt. Northern Ry., from Rogan to San Augustine, 58 miles. The latter railway has now under construction an extension from San Augustine to Center, 20 miles, and it is proposed to extend the line still farther north in the near future, probably to Shreveport. W. C. Nixon is Gen. Mgr., and C. F. W. Felt is Ch. Engr. G., C. & S. F. Ry., Galveston.

ST. LOUIS SOUTHWESTERN RY. OF TEXAS, authorized to purchase and consolidate with the Texas & Louisiana R. R., from Lufkin to Monterey, 22 miles. The St. L. S. W. Ry. of Texas amended charter authorizes it to extend this line southeast via Newton to the Sabine River, with branches to Beaumont and Orange. Arrangements have been made to construct at once an extension from Gatesville to Hamilton, 35 miles. W. E. Green is Gen. Supt., and M. L. Lynch, Ch. Engr., Tyler.

SOUTHERN KANSAS RY. OF TEXAS, authorized to purchase and consolidate with the Pecos & Northern Texas R. R., from Amarillo to Texico, 95 miles; and with the Pecos River R. R., from Texas-New Mexico line to Pecos City, 65 miles. The S. K. Ry. of Texas now extends from the Texas-Oklahoma line to Washburn, 115 miles. Avery Turner is Gen. Mgr., Amarillo.

TRANS-CANADA.—C. E. Perry, C. E., has returned to Quebec, Que., from Norway House, on the Nelson River, where he has been in charge of the surveying party engaged in exploratory and location work for this proposed road. The route found is comparatively level. To the east of the crossing of the Nelson River a straight line for 100 miles is possible; through the existence of Warren Island, the bridging of Nelson River will be easily accomplished.

WASHINGTON.—The Northwest Coal & Coke Co., Louis Ernst, Pres., has placed bonds for building 17 miles of new road for connecting the new coal fields with the Crows Nest Division. Donald McLeod, Nelson, B. C., has the contract.

WESTERN MARYLAND.—Contract for constructing tidewater terminals in Baltimore, Md., let to Degnon & McLean Co., and work has begun.

WESTERN PACIFIC.—Surveyors started work on this road in Stockton, Cal., on April 5. The party will proceed northward toward Sacramento when finished. Geo. S. Dillman, San Francisco, is Ch. Engr., and Chas. S. Rodgers, Res. Engr., is in charge of surveys.

YAKUTAT & SOUTHERN.—Wash.—Preliminary work begun; actual work to commence as soon as snow is off the ground.

YAZOO & MISSISSIPPI VALLEY.—It is announced that after spending nearly a million dollars on unsuccessful engineering work on the Anding Cut, the company has decided to abandon the work and build a new line around Memphis, Tenn. The new line will be built via Eden and Bentonia. W. W. Hayden is Asst. Engr., Memphis.

ZANESVILLE, MARIETTA & PARKERSBURG.—W. S. McFetridge, Asst. Ch. Engr., Parkersburg, W. Va., informs us that this road will not run through Marietta, O., as stated in our issue of April 9, but will go about 19 miles southwest of that city; also that the river to be bridged near Parkersburg is the Ohio and not the Wabash River. Mr. McFetridge is Asst. Ch. Engr. of the Little Kanawha R. R., of which this road is a part.

Va.—To build from Boomer Station, Fayette county, to junction with Gauley and Great Kanawha Rivers, with such branches, spurs and sidings as necessary; capital, $10,000; principal office, Cleveland, O.; incorporators, Gustav Van Deusteln, W.
